

CAPITAL REGION: THROUGH OUR LENS

1

Paul Buckowski / Times Union

Here's a look at some of the compelling events covered by the Times Union last week.

- 1 Raymond Chiu, left, of Manhattan; Jeff Branson, center, a human-cyborg relations specialist with SparkFun; and Jonathan Shin, from Palisades, N.J., look at the signal coming off of a Nonin pulse oximeter with software tool during the Tech Valley Center of Gravity, Internet of Things Hackathon on Jan. 31 in Troy. Chiu and Shin were working to have the sensor communicate with software that would listen to the data coming from the sensor and then be able to provide mechanical therapy to a patient.
- 2 Sarah Collins of Croseyville and her dog, Rusty, take a walk around Rensselaer Lake on Feb. 2 in Albany.
- 3 Members of the Electric City Chorus, out of Schenectady, perform during the 56th Annual Center for Disability Services Telethon on Jan. 31 in Colonie.
- 4 A stack of Merriam-Webster's dictionaries is ready for use backstage at the 34th Annual Capital Region Spelling Bee at Proctors on Feb. 2 in Schenectady.
